Description

"It is not an actor who speaks, it is a speech which acts". Michel de Ghelderode.

Drama as a means of expression is an approach to learning French as a foreign language as it combines both bodily and mental exertion, which encourages a deepening of the acquisition of language.

The aim of this workshop is to allow you to experience drama techniques which can be useful tools for the language classroom.

You will therefore gain experience and a file of activity sheets to lead a class whatever the audience (beginner to advanced level and young teenagers to adults). You will discover, share and create fun activities.
