Presentation

Description

The aim of the M2 internship is to put all the theoretical and practical skills acquired by the students since their Bachelor's degrees into practice as they take part in a research or R&D project in a laboratory (program R) or company (program P). The students will be entrusted with a clearly identified mission, and they will be responsible, firstly, for its completion, and secondly, for the presentation of the methods implemented and results obtained in a written report and through one or more oral presentations.

Period : Semester 10
