- Urban planning and International Cooperation - UCI
- Urban Design - DU
- International Cooperation in Urban Planning - ICUP

All of these programs, open to students in initial and continuing education, offer classes given by researchers and practitioners who, throughout the four semesters of teaching, alternate theoretical approaches, practical approaches and professional role-playing in various educational forms (lectures, seminars, individual or collective tutorial classes, project design workshops or missions dedicated more specifically to research, graduation project). Getting this master's presupposes considerable dedication on the part of the student, vouching for the quality of his or her future professional commitment.

The objective of the program is to endow students with a solid grounding in the contemporary city and the tools required for its study, planning and management.

More specifically :

- The Urban planning and Urban project programs aims to prepare students for a career in urban planning in the field of regional planning, urban project and urban project management
- The Urban planning and international cooperation and International cooperation in urban planning programs aim to prepare students for a career in urban planning and development in the context of implementation of international projects and cooperation and development schemes

The master's in Urban planning and design is an international interdisciplinary program that prepares student for a career in urban planning. This master's degree is organized over two years and based on four teaching careers :

- Urban Planning and Urban project - UPU

The Urban design program aims to prepare students for a career in the design of public spaces, urban projects and project coordination (urban and territorial).

International education : Internationally-oriented programmes

Program

Specifics of the program

The Urbanism and urban project course is spread over two years

- MASTER 1 : The 1st year's master includes a major of teaching (80%) gathering the base of knowledge of the urbanism and the planning : knowledge of social sciences applied to the city, knowledge of urbanism, knowledge and methodological tools, urban policies and strategies, city management, as well as a minor of teaching prefiguring the course in 2nd year. These specific lessons focus on the theoretical foundations of the urban project, the factory and the management of the spaces of the city. Throughout the year, students participate in an urban project workshop that follows an order from public authorities, public, parapublic or private bodies with which the Institute establishes an agreement.
- MASTER 2nd year : In the second year, the master is offered alternately : a week of courses and three weeks in the context of a company or a public authority, internship, apprenticeship or contract of professionalisation. The 2nd year's master is also open to students in continuing education
- Professional contract : It concerns students who take part in an alternation of one year in the framework of an agreement which links the company or the public collectivity. Pace of alternation: 1 week of classes and 3 weeks in a company
- Learning :It concerns students under 26 years old, who carry out a one-year apprenticeship within the framework of an agreement that binds the company or the public collectivity and FormaSup Isère Drôme Ardèche
- Pace of alternation: 1 week of classes and 3 weeks in a company
- Traineeship : It concerns students who are doing an internship of maximum 6 months (full-time) within the framework of an agreement that binds the company or public authority and the Urban Planning Institute of Grenoble
